

HE MUST GO OUT

A STRONG FEELING THAT PARNELL SHOULD RESIGN.

WHAT MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT SAY.

The Scandal Will Cause Dissensions Among English Liberals.

EFFORTS TO GET SELIVERSKOFF'S SLAYER

The Poisoned Bullet Was Fired by a Nihilist--Father Hesychius's Plan Failing--Koch's Curse--Other Foreign News.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The feeling among the English Liberals on the subject of the O'Shea revelations continues to grow. Mr. B. Rickard, M. P., one of the most influential among the workmen's representatives in Parliament, is quoted as speaking very strongly against the continuance of Mr. Parnell as a Liberal leader. Mr. Bleakley said: "The Liberal party represents the working people and the so-called middle classes, among whom the purity of home life is held in high esteem. We have neither the time nor the inclination for debauchery, and we want our leaders to be men that we can take by the hand." When Joseph Biggar died, leaving a good deal of property to an illegitimate son and the son's mother, we were a good deal surprised and shocked; but this case is far worse. How can we condemn the aristocracy for their licentiousness, if our leaders are not men at least decent in their domestic behavior?

Mr. Long, M. P., says: "Half of Mr. Gladstone's unexampled influence with the British public comes from his example, domestic life. I think Mr. Parnell should retire until this is over. The non-conformist clergy, who exercise a vast influence among the Liberals, the bulk of the English Liberals being non-conformists, are quoted by the provincial papers as calling for a change in the Irish leadership. One Tory paper in North Wilts speaks brutally of Mr. Parnell as the 'Bagnat Harvey' of the latest Irish rebellion. In his own chains, the allusion being to a gentlewoman named Harvey who was excommunicated by the church for participating in the rebellion of 1798. All indications point to dissensions among the English Liberals regarding Mr. Parnell's position."

The morning papers again publish column upon column of gossip and opinion upon the Parnell matter, including references to it made in various speeches of politicians in the provinces. Two new provincial papers, letters to the editors, etc. It is impossible to disregard the fact that the Liberal rank and file are everywhere showing signs of indignation at the apparent disposition of the leaders to ignore Mr. Parnell's offence. Mr. Stead, the noted Liberal editor, declares his opinion that Irish home rule may as well be relegated to the planet Saturn unless Mr. Parnell is thrown overboard immediately.

HIS EFFORTS NOT SUCCESSFUL.
Reports from Paris state that Father Hesychius is not meeting with much success in his efforts to secure the separation of the French Church from Rome. He is avoided by both clericals and free-thinkers.

THE Czar GREATLY INTERESTED.
It is believed that the murderer of General Lanza has succeeded in escaping to London. The leading detectives of Warsaw have been sent to Paris to assist the French police in searching for the guilty party or parties. The Czar is taking an extraordinary interest. In the case, and will, it is said, leave no stone unturned in his efforts to detect and make a terrible example of the assassin.

THE Czar GREATLY INTERESTED.
A bill is to be introduced in Parliament, at the instance of the Tramway and Omnibus employees of London, limiting the hours of labor in those occupations to twelve daily, inclusive of two hours for meals.

INTERESTED IN KOCH'S REMEDY.

A dispatch from Berlin says that the Emperor is very anxious to have Dr. Koch's remedy applied in the German Army, where consumption is more deadly than any other disease.

APPOINTED TO A COLONELcy.
The Prince of Naples, heir to the throne of Italy, has been appointed an honorary colonel in the Austrian Army.

A POISONED BULLET.

ASSASSINATION OF GENERAL SELIVERSKOFF ESTABLISHED BEYOND DOUBT.
From the Berlin Tribune.

PARIS, Nov. 21.—Dr. Brouard has made a report on the death of General Seliverskoff. He says that death resulted from the effects of a single bullet wound, that the bullet entered behind the ear, and that the shot was fired at a distance of from fifteen to twenty centimeters (about six to eight inches). A funeral service for the murdered General will be held to-day. The body will afterward be taken to Russia.

Other reports add that it was a poisoned bullet that killed the General; that Nihilism is now indubitably stamped upon the face of the crime that Podleskiy, the present assassin, has committed to Belorussia. It is believed that the General's executors and friends have arrived and arranged for his funeral, and that there is one theory, having a semblance of foundation, to the effect that Podleskiy slew Seliverskoff for private revenge as the betrayer of a girl with whom the Pole had been in love.

The British flag was hauled down and the flag of the Congo State hoisted on the vessel. The crew and officers were compelled to confine their services.

A LEGACY OF THE WAR.

MILITARY DRILL May Make Americans the Finest Men in the World.
From the San Francisco Chronicle.

Between the year of 1812 and the war of the rebellion military matters were little considered or thought of in the United States, not even the Mexican war being enough to arouse any general interest in the subject. With the arrival of the rebels to cover the Union, however, a new order was created, and though a quarter of a century had elapsed since the last shot of the civil war was fired the military idea is still in existence. This is evidenced not so much by the increase in the strength and efficiency of the militia, though noticeable in that direction, as by the adoption of military drill and discipline in various civil institutions, whose purpose as far removed from war as could be.

Nearly all the auxiliary organizations in the nature of the drill corps, as, for instance, the corps of the Knights Templar, the uniformed ranks of the Knights of Pythias, the drill corps of the Workmen, and others which are readily called to mind.

Now is this all. In schools and colleges, from the primary public schools to the universities, to say nothing of private military schools, drill is encouraged, and in most cases made compulsory. The children in the lowest grades of the public schools are taught to march and keep time to the drum beat, while in the more advanced institutions a complete drill, including the manual of arms, is included in the curriculum. Congress has encouraged this idea by detailing officers of the Regular Army to various civil institutions as military instructors, so that the students get the West Point course of drill, less of course, the very rigid discipline which obtains at the National Military Academy.

There is everything to be said for this system, not alone on account of its being an excellent primary school for the life of a soldier, but as well as for the growth of the military faculties of the human body. Instant and ready discipline teaches the greatest lesson that command must first learn to obey, and it makes a boy respectful to his superiors and considerate to his inferiors. As to the future, it makes a nation of unarmed soldiers, ready and qualified to spring to arms at a moment's warning should the occasion arise, and capable of being converted into veterans on very short notice.

This is the chief physical benefit of this system as it is now conducted, having a short time before towed at a speed of ten miles an hour a half-knots an hour for a distance of from four to five knots by a torpedo boat without being any the worse. Germany has now adopted this for naval purposes and during the recent maneuvers at Wilhelmshaven one of these was used from a war ship of the fleet for reconnoitering.
